ABOUT PAAFF

Philadelphia Asian American Film & Filmmakers was founded in 2008 by a passionate group of Asian Americans who felt a need for a festival space that was focused on supporting the growing Asian filmmaking community. The Philadelphia Asian American Film Festival (PAAFF) is the showcase event of this non-profit organization and is dedicated to supporting and highlighting the experiences of Asian and Pacific Islander diaspora through creative community-focused programs. PAAFF is currently the third-largest film festival of its kind in the United States. In addition to our film programs, our volunteer-run organization also presents supporting programming such as live performances, chef demonstrations, panels and lectures, and educational workshops during the festival and throughout the year.

OUR MISSION & VISION

Our Mission: The Philadelphia Asian American Film Festival aims to serve as a platform to showcase and celebrate Asian and Pacific Islander diaspora storytellers and their works. In order to build a more inclusive and informed community, we collaborate with other like-minded organizations that support this mission.

Vision: We believe in celebrating and propelling the voices of Asian and Pacific Islander storytellers and creators to the forefront of culture by inviting artists to share their work with the world through our platform.

REPRESENTATION MATTERS

It has become increasingly important for film and media to accurately represent and reflect BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, and People of Color) experiences. In the history of American film, Asian characters have often been written as caricatures and stereotypes by non-Asian storytellers. Iconic American films such as Breakfast at Tiffany's (1961) and A Christmas Story (1983) and even the recent 2017 Ghost in a Shell adaptation have relied on problematic stereotypes, yellowface, and whitewashing as part of their craft.

The role of community-based festivals like PAAFF is to emphasize the importance of storytelling by, about, and for our own communities. Notable films with thoughtful Asian and Pacific Islander diaspora storytelling that PAAFF has supported include: The Tiger Hunter (2017), Minari (2020), I Was A Simple Man (2021) and Chosen (2022).

PAAFF is focused on elevating storytelling that is by and about the Asian and Pacific Islander diaspora, while also educating our communities on the vibrant histories and invaluable legacies of our communities.

“PAAFF has been at the forefront of addressing historical and contemporary racism in the United States from multiple perspectives and bringing along many different communities. This overarching outlook is what draws us and other organizational partners to them.

Aisha Zia Khan,
Executive Director,

WHAT DOES REPRESENTATION MEAN FOR PAAFF?

PAAFF programs emphasize the importance of fully representing the diverse stories within the Asian and Pacific Islander diaspora. We encourage our communities to expand their understanding of identity to include nationality, economic class, indigeneity, and citizenship status in addition to sexuality and gender identity. Since inception, PAAFF has also expanded to include other creative media such as performance art, music, culinary arts, and more. Below are examples of only some of the ways in which PAAFF consciously curates diverse programs all year round.

..... Asian Music Showcase – Since 2016, the festival has hosted live performances by Asian American music artists of different genres.

..... Pacific Showcase – In the United States, Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islanders are often grouped with Asian Americans even though their experience differs in many aspects. It is important for our festival to highlight these experiences in their own showcase. This showcase is sponsored by and presented in partnership with Pacific Islanders in Communications.

..... Artist Residency Program (presented in partnership with PAPA) – This year-long residency is granted to three Philadelphia based performers selected by Philadelphia Asian Performing Artists (PAPA), who present their works during our annual festival.

..... Asian Chef Experience and Virtual Dine-In Theater – Since 2016 these immersive foodie events bridge the gap between film and food and have celebrated over 20 Asian-owned and operated restaurants located all over Philadelphia.

..... Conferences and Panel Discussions – Since 2016, PAAFF has invited academics, filmmakers, and community leaders to share their work related to Asian American Studies, Media Studies, Community Advocacy, etc.. These events have seen a total of over 2,000 attendees from diverse academic backgrounds.

WHERE YOUR SUPPORT MAKES AN IMPACT

Since its founding, PAAFF has been an entirely volunteer-run festival that has relied heavily on the labor of passionate individuals. Under the leadership of arts and culture visionaries and with the support of our sponsors, local foundations, and community, PAAFF has grown to be one of the largest A&PI-focused film festivals in the US and an important, influential platform for Philadelphia's flourishing arts scene.

Now in its 16th year, PAAFF continues to grow and build upon its resources to create impactful programs throughout the calendar year including the Asian Chef Experience, the Virtual Dine-In Theater, Film Club, and Trivia Night at Queen & Rook. Such events build community by spotlighting local Asian American businesses, honoring our histories, and celebrating the rich diversity of our cultures. Our annual cycle of events culminates in our signature film festival, which elevates the voices of A&PI filmmakers, playwrights, musical artists, and other creatives. With the generous contributions of our sponsors, we will be able to continue supporting our current programming while also creating new and innovative programming that will further our organizational goals.

REFLECTING ON 2022

Since the progression of the COVID-19 pandemic, our staff continued building a hybrid model for our 15th annual festival. Taking place from November 3rd till the 13th, the hybrid festival consisted of both in-person and online events: four live/in-person film screenings, two live performances, one music showcase, 100+ films available for online rental, and a full lineup of virtual filmmaker Q&As and panel discussions. The hybrid festival allowed PAAFF to continue expanding our accessibility to audiences around the world, as well as begin to reintegrate in-person events into our program.

Audiences from 29 states in the US and 8 countries around the world were able to enjoy film rentals and free live streamed content. PAAFF organized multiple social events during the festival to encourage community-building, such as our Virtual Filmmakers Brunch, which allowed filmmakers from around the world to connect, and our annual Queer Asian Brunch, inviting local, queer Asian creatives to share a meal together.

The inclusion of limited in-person events allowed for joyful community connection that many attendees missed during our online festival last year. We saw a 97% audience retention rate with the shift from an entirely online festival to a hybrid festival, with the drop in audience numbers most likely due to changes in pandemic restrictions. With the diversity of our program, we also saw our attendance grow more diverse in age, nationality, and race—with many new faces in attendance. We anticipate PAAFF's audiences to continue growing this year.

LOOKING FORWARD TO 2023

Our successful combination of online and in-person programming in 2022 has shown us that our team is ready for anything, and we are excited for the possibilities. While we continue to monitor the COVID-19 pandemic, our staff has prepared to increase our programming activities outside of the 16th annual festival in November. By bringing additional programming to Philadelphia, we will keep audiences engaged and aware of Asian and Pacific Islander diaspora stories all year.

We are excited to continue developing established online programs and will also be revitalizing programs from previous festival years. Additionally, we will be holding in person screenings for all of the feature films in the 2023 program.

A MESSAGE FROM PAAFF

The Philadelphia Asian American Film Festival started in 2008 as an entirely volunteer-run festival, mostly fueled by a need for Asian American representation in the Philadelphia film scene. In the decade and a half since then, PAAFF has grown exponentially with the addition of new creative programs and increased representation across the Asian & Pacific Islander diaspora. The festival has carved a space in Philadelphia for A&PI diaspora creators to be recognized, supported, and celebrated.

As our festival continues to grow and develop, sponsorship contributions will help PAAFF continue to achieve an impressive festival scope while increasing our sustainability and ensuring that our impact—both locally and nationally—will continue for decades to come.

We look forward to working with you to create a sponsorship package that fits your needs!
